

The National Publications Committee of the Australian Music Therapy Association Inc. is currently constructing a new website (address above). With the aim of more effectively communicating the goals of music therapy programs to the general public, we are seeking permission to use still, photographic images of yourself or your child/ward in your/his/her music therapy session. The images will appear along the top of the home page as a slide show as well as being dispersed through areas of the website viewed by the general public. They may also be placed alongside text.

Providing consent is voluntary. Your details will only be used in the way you indicate and you are free to withdraw your consent at any time. If you wish to retract consent at any time, please contact the National Office of AMTA Inc. via the website address above. However it may be difficult to withdraw images from public circulation once they have been released. As these images will be displayed on a web site that is in the public domain, it is possible you may be recognised.
